Scriptural Reflections on Stewardship

Our heavenly Father is with us, ever providing for our needs. He is always mindful of us; in him we shall never be disturbed. All should regard us as servants of Christ.

“Do not worry about tomorrow; tomorrow will take care of itself.” - Matthew 6:34

Jesus tells us that we cannot serve two masters. In many ways, worry is the other master in our lives. We worry about our job, our house, our family and our health. We worry about our future plans, our dreams and our goals. We worry about measuring up, meeting expectations and keeping up with the neighbors. Today, God gives us a very soothing message. Do not let worry rule your life. Put God first and He will take care of everything else.

Every Tuesday, the Blessed Sacrament is exposed in the church from 3 to 4 p.m.

It is an hour of prayer for the priests, religious men and women and an increase of vocations to the priesthood and the religious life of the Church. We invite you to come and spend time with the Lord for these intentions and for your personal requests. Holy Hour closes with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Coro

Estamos reorganizando nuestro coro, Si te gusta cantar, o sabes tocar algun instrumento, nuestro coro te necesita. Por favor acercate a la Sra. Rosa para más información. Recuerda, cantar es orar dos veces.

APRENDE A ORAR EN DIEZ MINUTOS

- 1.ó Comienza por saber escuchar. En el silencio y en tu interior, el Cielo emite noche y dia.
- 2.ó No ores para que Dios realice tus planes, sino para que tú interpretes los planes de Dios.
- 3.ó No olvides que la fuerza de tu debilidad, es la oración. Cristo dijo: òPedid y recibiréisö
- 4.ó El pedir tiene su técnica: Hazlo atenta, humilde, confiada, sin titubear e insistente y por nuestro Señor Jesucristo que vive y reina por los siglos de los siglosí Amen.
- 5.ó Cuando ores, no seas ni engreido, ni demasiado humilde. Con Dios no se valen trucosí Sé cual eres.
- 6.ó Y qué de las distracciones involuntarias? No te preocupes, Dios y el sol broncean con sólo ponerse delante.
- 7.ó Si alguna vez piensas que cuando hablas a Dios Él no te respondeí , abre la Biblia y lee.

Ancient Prayers, New Translation

Bulletin Insert 1 ó The third typical edition of the Roman Missal
February 27, 2011

On November 27, 2011, the English speaking Catholic Church in the United States will begin using a new translation of the prayers that are used at Mass. To help parishes prepare for this coming change, a series of announcements beginning with this bulletin insert will be published in parish bulletins. Please check the bulletin regularly to keep up with the forthcoming changes.

Translating the Mass

It is no secret that the English speaking world is anticipating some changes in the liturgy. A new translation of the Mass is on its way and it will affect the way English speaking Catholics pray the Mass. But why is this happening now and what is the thinking behind these changes? To answer these questions, we need to go back to the reform of the liturgy which began at the Second Vatican Council (1962 ó 1965).

When Pope John XXIII assembled the bishops of the world for the Second Vatican Council, his primary goal was to renew and update the Church. Because the faith of the Church is most clearly expressed through its liturgical celebrations, the first thing the bishops did was to renew the liturgy. This process began with the first document promulgated by the Council: The Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy. Even though it was written over 40 years ago, it still stands today as the most authoritative document on the liturgy in the Church. It called for a new approach to liturgical celebrations centered on the desire to engage those present at the liturgy in full, conscious and active participation.

Fewer and fewer people have a living memory of the Mass before Vatican II, but certainly one of the most recognizable differences since then is that it is no longer required to celebrate the Mass in Latin. The Mass may now be celebrated in languages such as English. Allowing liturgy to be celebrated in the language of the people was one significant way of encouraging fuller participation at Mass.

It was a massive undertaking after the Council to both reform the liturgical texts and to translate them from Latin into contemporary languages. First, changes had to be made to all of the liturgies of the Church to simplify them and bring them closer to their origins. Secondly, these new texts which were composed in Latin needed to be translated into the local languages of the world.

The English speaking bishops at the Council decided to create an organization called the International Commission on English in the Liturgy (ICEL). It was (and continues to be) their responsibility to translate all of the liturgical books of the Church into English. Translating liturgical texts is a complex process; it is not just translating words, it is translating concepts and ideas. Sometimes words in one language do not convey the same meaning when they are translated into another, and no two languages are structured the same way in terms of syntax or grammar. How could these complex elements be handled by the translators of the liturgical texts? To guide the translators, Pope Paul VI produced a document entitled Comme le prévoit in 1969. He based this document on a principle of translation known as ödynamic equivalenceö. Essentially this means that it is not as important to translate words from one language to another as it is to translate ideas from one language into another. This was the basis of the translations made by ICEL from Latin into English in the 70s, 80s and into the 90s.

In 2001, Pope John Paul II revisited the topic of translations and promulgated a new document entitled Liturgiam Authenticam. This document changed the principles for the translation of liturgical texts. It called for the use of öformal equivalenceö which means that the translation from Latin into English needs to be more literal. This is different from what we are currently used to, so when new translations are published, they will sound different to the ears of English speaking Catholics.

Over the next seven weeks, there will be a series of Questions and Answers on the new translation printed in the parish bulletin. Please take some time each Sunday to read them. They will help readers to understand why and how this new translation came about.

Evangelization Corner.....

Reflecting On The Gospel - Most people tend to worry about something-maybe not all the time, maybe not in ways that make them sick like “I’m worried sick about...”But at times, we all worry about something a little bit or a whole lot.

In last week’s Gospel, Jesus gave us another unusual teaching, “Don’t worry.” He says that our Heavenly Father knows what we need, that we should seek first the Kingdom of God and God’s righteousness.

We don’t want to confuse worry with concern. Jesus knows that we are going to be concerned about things. After all, as loving and caring and responsible people, we are concerned about many different things and so we make plans to take care of ourselves and people we care about and love - now and in the future. This is a healthy and acceptable concern.

It is worry that Jesus is concerned about. Worry is unnecessary concern. Worry is disturbing to the peace and joy we have as God’s children. Jesus tells us not to be burdened with unnecessary concern. He tells us to focus on the Kingdom of God and God’s righteousness and that we are to rely on God’s gracious abundance.

Sharing Ideas - What kind of things do people worry about? What might you say to a friend who seems always to be worried about something?
